(1) Activity content

The teacher leads the children to visit the Road Safety Park. The activity is divided into two parts. In the first part , the important matters of road safety were introduced children will understand that pedestrians also need to be safe on the road with question. Children acted as drivers to ride bicycles on the road with traffic lights and signs.

(2) Activity results

When visiting the road safety park, they can see different road facilities and signs. And follow the rules when riding bicycles to understand the importance of road safety. During the activity, the precautions and benefits safety were introduced , and children can have a deeper understanding of road safety through a questions.

In addition, the teacher will lead the children to pretend to be pedestrians and walk through the Road Safety Park. The children can recognize different road signs and facilities, such as road lights, cross walk, footbride, etc., with lerning the precautions for crossing the road. Finally, children can take part as a driver on a bicycle with judging the correct colour of traffic lights or the right road to go, ect. As result, children can understand the rules of road safety and the benefits of following them, in order to become safe and responsible drivers when they grow up.

In this activity, children can effectively improve their understanding of road safety, such as judging red lights and green lights. Children can also develop their awareness of road safety, that can achieve the teaching objectives of the activity.

Suggestion:

The overall activity is good, but it is recommended that children be allowed to operate bicycles in schools in order to consolidate their knowledge and skills ,and also cultivate their habits to pay attention to their surroundings with obeying road safety rules in other places.
